A: The isprime function also checks for divisibility of number by primes smaller than square root of number. In case no such number exists, isprime returns false. The isprime for 2*2 = 4 does not exist, so it will return false, causing the program to abort. You can test for this case with: printf("%d ", isprime(4)); In order to print an error string, you can use goto: printf("%d ", isprime(2)); goto error; printf("%d ", isprime(2*2)); goto error; printf("%d ", isprime(2*2
