The former Vice-President of Operations for BP owns and operates his own ship, a crew and oil-skimming equipment, all of which he puts to use during Gulf spill. We talk with Chris about how he got into the oil spill business and how he's helped out during the ongoing disaster. To help people affected by the spill and keep up with new developments or learn more about the problem, visit BPoilspill.org. About Chris Chris Hernandez is the former Vice-President of Operations for BP and owner and operator of its sponging ship, "Helene Skaltsis". He is the beneficiary of the largest separate legal settlement in the history of BP, and has helped lead BP through what will be a multi-year clean-up effort. He has been described as the "Dean of BP" and is the most prominent representative of the BP Oil Spill Compensation and Restoration Fund. He is also a world-renowned scientist, explorer, and offshore driller, having pioneered deepwater oil exploration in the Gulf of Mexico. He is an advocate and media spokesperson on behalf of BP for a number of projects, including the Gulf Coast Public Art Initiative.M. Kramer, H.
